If an infection of 50 per cent in one gold mine employing 300 men causes a loss conservatively estimated at over $20,000 a year, what must be the economic significance of this disease for India, with its 300,000,000 of people and from 60 to 80 per cent of them infected? d. Retarding effect on education and civilization.--A photograph on file in this office shows a group of children, no one of whom until this year had ever been in a school; no member of their parents family, of the grandparents family, or their great-grandparents family on either side had ever gone to school. We have in this family a record of v at least four generations of illiteracy due to the disabling effects of hookworm disease. In the community in which this family lives are many other families showing...
